Seal Island (Motion picture) Walt Disney Productions, made 1948. Released by Walt Disney Productions 16 mm. Division, 1953.
18 min., sd., color, 16 mm. (True life adventure series)
Technicolor.
Summary: A study of the fur-bearing Alaskan seals during the mating season when the seals return to the barren place of their own birth to breed. The bulls arrive early in May, select sites for their summer homes where they await the arrival of the females. The young males spar like prizefighters, training to challenge a beachmaster and take possession of his harem. Near tragedy develops when a baby seal loses his mother, but she finds him among the island's more than 100,000 inhabitants despite his apparent resemblance to all the other pups. Filmed on one of the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea.

Based on the book The San Quentin story, by Clinton T. Duffy and Dean Jennings.
Summary: Three episodes of prison life reflect the desire of prisoners for comedy, freedom, and religious solace. In "The chef" a group of convicts frames a prison cook after his release, and returns him to jail because they like his cooking. "The hostage" depicts an unsuccessful jail break attempt in which the ringleaders die violently. In "The face" an agnostic prisoner artist finds spiritual solace when he restores a religious painting in the chapel.

15 min., si., b&w, 16 mm.
Summary: Describes, with close-up photography, a surgical operation on a cat to section the eighth cranial nerve. Shows many symptoms of vestibular disfunction. Unilateral lesions produce temporary rolling, permanent rotation of head, and air righting reflexes—all toward the side of the lesion—as well as a slight decrease in homolateral muscle tonus. Bilateral sections produce, at first, violent rotary movements of the head, hyperextension of the limbs, and an inability to stand; gradually the symptoms become less marked. Air righting reflexes remain defective.

Train trip through the Rocky Mountains (Motion picture) Academy Films, 1955.
17 min., sd., color, 16 mm.
Kodachrome.
With study guide.
Summary: Tells the story of two children who travel alone by train from Denver to Sacramento to visit their grandparents. With their mother, they go to the ticket office in Denver to buy the tickets. Later, their parents bring them to the railroad station where they check their baggage and board the train. Shows the train being washed, the mail pouches being loaded, and the engineer getting into the cab of the locomotive. Shortly after the train pulls out of the station, the conductor takes their tickets. The children go to the vistadome car to watch the mountain scenery, and see snow-capped mountain peaks, evergreen forests, steep canyons, rivers, and tunnels. At lunch time they go to the dining car, and later watch the scenery from their seat in the Pullman car.
